Should Start McMurray Road Soon

Local Residents Presented With GOBC Wings By RCAF

LAC LA BICHE — F/O Norman Dick, of the RCAF, on a recent visit to this area, showed an interesting film, "Canada's Air Defence". It outlined the normal daily routine on how Canada's Air Defence Teams operate to protect us against a possible aggressor.

The Ground Observer Corps, one of these teams, consists of civilians throughout Canada, who have telephone or radio communications, have volunteered to assist the Air Force in this great task. The members have been trained to observe and report aircraft movements in a definite pattern. Their work has been a tremendous help. Their reports supplement radar to give us that necessary early warning to prevent the element of surprise, so necessary to an enemy in war. Their peace time work is outstanding. Their reports have decreased air searches, have been conspicuous in their assistance in pin-pointing the most likely location of a crashed aircraft or in preventing mishaps occurring. The local observers were recently involved in the search for Earl Wright of Paxton and were instrumental in pinpointing the area in which he was located.

The following personnel of this area were presented with their G.O.B.C. Wings; regional supervisor, Alex Proctor, Lac la Biche; assistant regional supervisor, J. K. Olstad; chief observer, Metro Watamaniuk, Wandering River; observer, Mrs. Metro Watamaniuk, Wandering River; observer, Miss Lynn Watamaniuk, Wandering River; chief observers, Mrs. K. Karpetz, Charron; E. G. Dobson, Lac la Biche, Mrs. N. Smolarchuk, Philomena, and Mrs. F. Donofrio, Kinosis.

PFC ELVIS PRESLEY, just before getting clipped short by U.S. army barbers, ponders his fate for the next two years. What army life will do for the drafted Presley, or what Presley will do to the American army, is something that time alone will tell. Most anti-rock 'n roll'ers hope it'll "make a man out of a guy what's all shook up."

Crude Oil Pipeline To Edmonton Would Follow Highway, Report Says

Lac la Biche's importance as a major rail centre would be tremendously increased if the Alberta and Federal Governments act on the recent report on northern development by the McGregor Royal Commission. The commission has recommended a railway from McMurray to Pine Point, N.W.T., on Great Slave Lake. It also calls for a start "very soon" on a highway from Lac la Biche to McMurray.

At present a market-type road leaves Highway 46 in the vicinity of Plamondon and goes north to Wandering River. "This should form the start of an all-weather secondary highway to McMurray.

The report points out that ultimately an oil pipeline will be built to carry oil sands crude from McMurray to Edmonton, and its location might follow that of the proposed highway.

It also points out that "it should not be long before we see the development of a power site on the Athabasca River southwest of McMurray, and when that is built it will require a major transmission line to Edmonton.

"The posibility of the new highway and this transmission line using a common right-of-way should be explored."

The rail line also would permit development of timber areas which now are inaccessible, and would pass close to the fabulous Athabasca oil sands, north of McMurray, where an estimated 300 billion barrels of oil lie in wait for development.

As an alternative, to sending copper ore from Pine Point to eastern Canada for processing, the commission suggests a new copper smelter could be established at Fort Saskatchewan, near Edmonton, in conjunction with the nickel smelter there. No matter where ore is sent, the report add, McMurray would provide the shortest route.

It says the Uranium City freight foreseen for the railway would raise total freight tonnage 15 to 20 per cent higher than could be expected if the railway went north from Grimshaw.

The commission emphasizes that the railways must decide what route the rail line will follow, but they predict that in view of the uranium mining expansion and growth of population, the decision, "based purely on economics, will be to build the road from McMurray."

From information it received, the commission says, it estimates that business done by the North in Alberta would increase from the present $50,000,000 to $150,000,000 by 1987 with the building of a railway.

Brierville Man Purchases Purebred

TWO HILLS—Jack Domet, formerly of Two Hills and now ranching at Briereville, who has a top-grade of commercial Herefords purchased a Scottish Highland bull from Besler, Wetaskiwin.

Fifteen years ago, while still attending school at Two Hills, Jack started his Hereford herd, buying a few heifers from the purebred herds of Homer Campbell, Clandonald, and Henry Zeigler, Vegreville.

Jack sold his first registered bull to Belzil of St. Paul who won prizes at local shows and who is today one of the most successful breeders of Herefords in Alberta, having shown the grand champion at Calgary this year.

Jack Domet hopes to develop, by cross-breeding, a hardy animal to rustle-out and withstand the long winters.

Co-op Reports Successful Year

The Plamondon Maple Leaf Co-operative store held the annual meeting in the Community Hall, with approximately 100 members in attendance.

Narcisse Menard, president, opened the meeting with a few words of welcome to the members, in French and English.

The yearly report of Co-op activities was given by Claude Gauthier, Co-op manager. The financial report was read and details explained by Mr. Gauthier.

Mr. Menard reported on monthly meetings, and stated that during the year a Credit Board had been set up, to remove part of the responsibility for credit collections from the manager. He said the Co-op had been very successful in the last year, and complimented the manager, Claude Gauthier.

A new type of heating system has been installed during the last year, a new storage room has been added, and several other minor improvements have been made. Total spent on repairs amounted to $1,500. The matter of refrigeration was discussed and a new refrigerated show case has been added.

The expansion of the Plamondon Co-op to include a lumber yard was discussed and it was decided that this should be tabled until later. It was the unanimous opinion of all members that a shed should be built this summer for storage of building supplies. Further details will be left to the directors.

Election of officers will be held to replace Alcide Plamondon, Leo Bourassa and Oscar Schaub, whose terms have been completed.

Interesting films were shown, to climax the evening.

Gainford Woman Among Tall Tales Contest Winners

The following story is one of five winners in the Tall Tales Contest conducted by the Sun Publishing Co. Ltd. in all of its 22 weekly newspapers in northern Alberta. It was sent in by Mrs. Oscar Eggen of Gainford.

TEXAS HEAT

This story took place on one of the hottest days in July that Alberta has on record.

Our neighbor had this hill on his farm. On the very top he had planted popping corn, half way down the steep hill he had sugar cane growing. A green pasture lay at the bottom of this hill where he had a herd of pure bred Texas cows.

It got so hot this day I'm speaking of, the corn started to pop, rolling down through the sugar cane that was running syrup. As it rolled faster down the hill it became large pop corn balls.

Then the farmer noticed his cows all lying down so he went out to investigate, the cows were all dead. He called the local veterinary. It wasn't bloat, colic or any cattle disease he knew so he came to the conclusion that when the corn popped and rolled through the syrup and piled up at the bottom, those Texas cows must of thought it was snow and froze to death.

Venice

Among the Easter visitors were Vallee Torresan, Mario and Doreen Giacobbo and Val Biollo all from Edmonton and Bruno Giacobbo from Waterways.

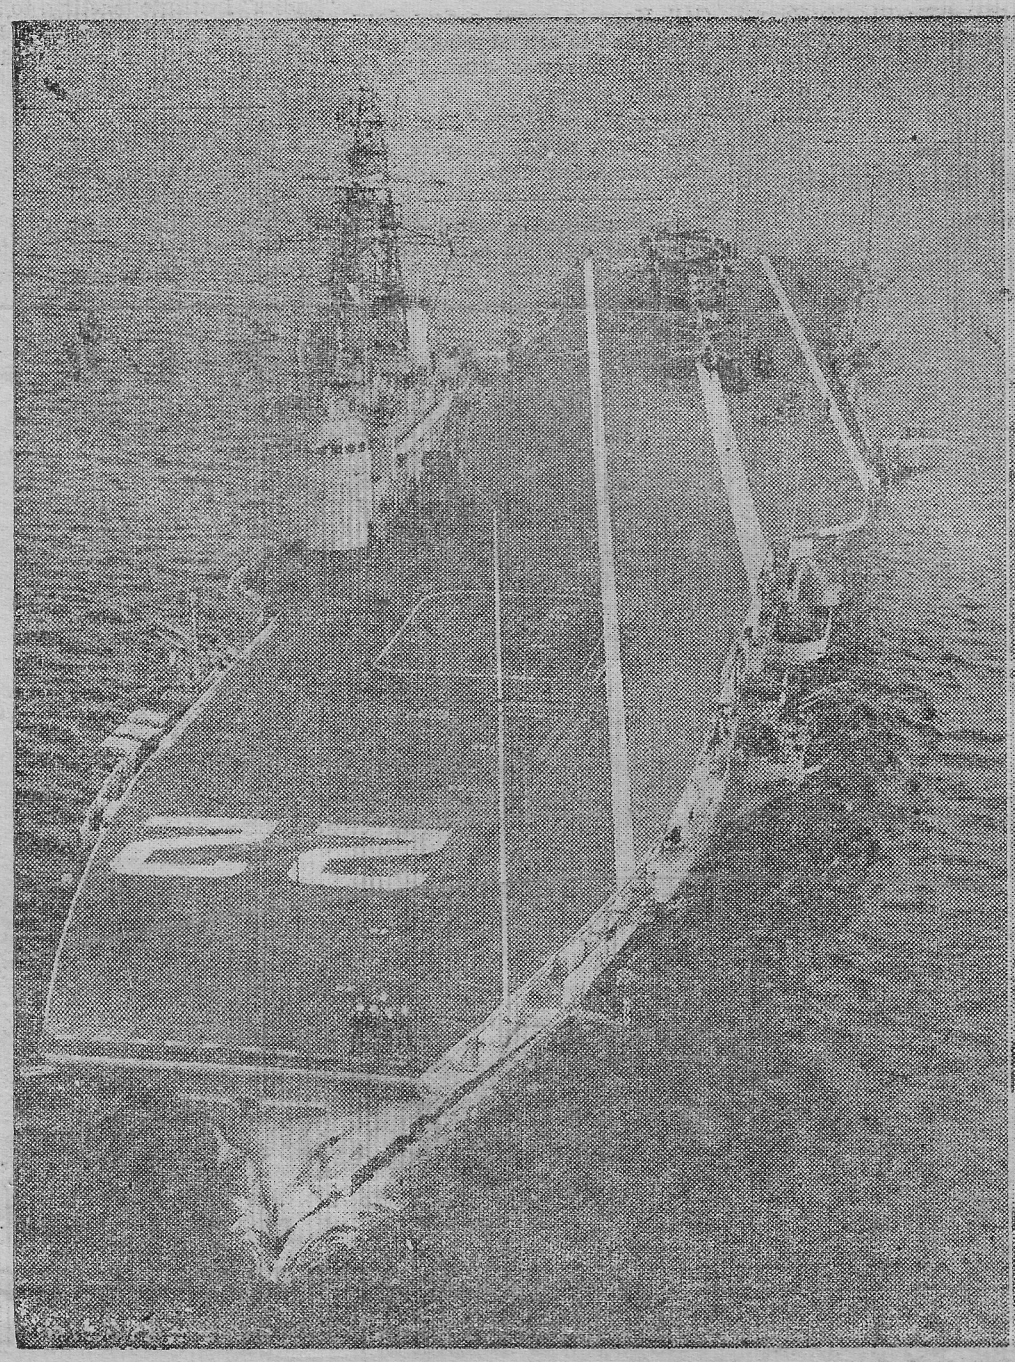
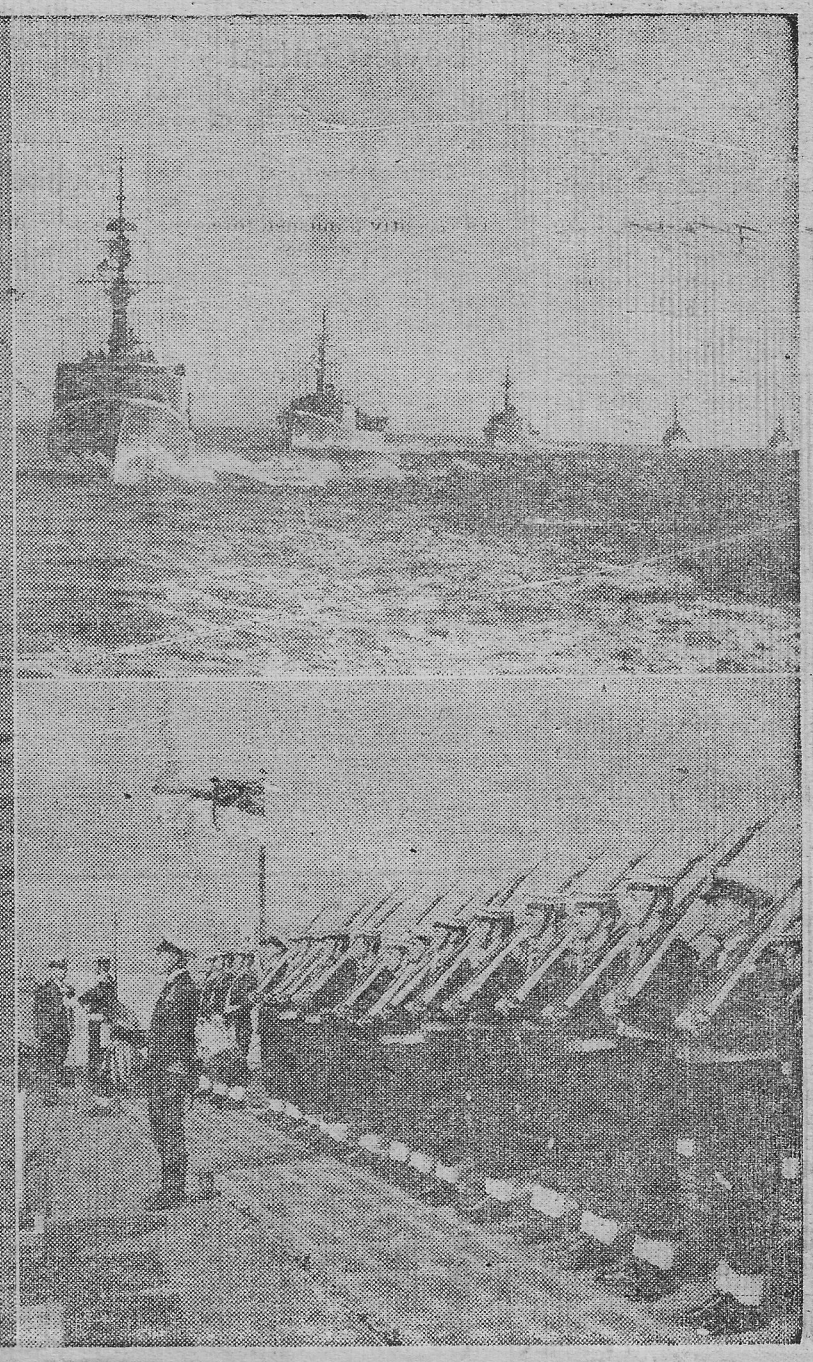
Army, Navy—Active In Peacetime!





STRENGTHENING of sea and air squadrons with the addition of new ships and aircraft, and operational and training cruises to many parts of the world have provided some of the major highlights for the Royal Canadian Navy. An important addition to the fleet was the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, left, complete with the latest equipment and devices for launching and receiving aircraft. The Bonaventure's aerial armament consists of new anti-submarine trackers and Banshee jet fighters. Eight destroyer escorts, including four of the new St. Laurent class, in September took part in the largest NATO naval exercises ever to be held. Five of the ships are pictures, top right, steaming in formation. The readiness and strength of the Navy's personnel is symbolized, lower right, by the guard of honor drawn up on the quarterdeck of HMCS St. Laurent at Portsmouth, England.

Army Activites

TOP LEFT to right: in Egypt members of 56 Canadian Reconnaissance Squadron man desert outposts in the interests of peace. In Germany, as the Army completed its sixth full year of duty with NATO, a major highlight was the rotation of more than 20.000 soldiers and their dependents. Arctic training at Fort Churchill contrasted sharply with conditions experienced by soldiers in other parts of the world. Bottom, left to right, the visit of Her Majesty the Queen and Prince Philip was highlighted by Canadian Army honor guards and ceremonies. At Petawawa the governor - general honored the 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, by presentation of regimental colors on behalf of Her Majesty; and throughout Canada units conducted a successful series of summer training exercises stressing tactics to be used in this new atomic age.—(National Defence Photos).

Bank Of Montreal Looks To More "Social" Construction To Help Out

MONTREAL — Although Canada's economy is now "clearly in a phase of recession," an upsurge in outlays on "social capital" — including housing and public works — probably will hold the total of capital investment in 1958 to a level not far below that of 1957, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for March, just issued.

The over-all reduction in capital investment this year is expected to be 2.3 per cent compared with 1957, a higher level than had been expected, the review says, quoting a recently published forecast by the federal government.

This forecast expects capital expenditures in primary industry to be down 17.6 per cent over 1957 and those in manufacturing to be down 20 per cent. But to offset these major reductions in business investment, it is expected that expenditures on housing, religious, educational and hospital facilities and public works will increase considerably.

"If the intentions for 1958 are carried out," the review says, "they will represent one of the sharpest changes in the composition of capital investment during the postwar period.

Major single factor counterbalancing the downturn in business investment in housing, the B of M review continues. Early in 1957, it says, housing construction fell to an unusually low level, but there was a dramatic upturn in the second half of the year as a result of steps taken to ease the availability of mortgage credit.

Housing starts in 1958 may be 10 to 15 per cent above the 1957 figure of 122,000, implying a total expenditure of more than $1.6 billion—15.5 per cent more than last year.

Relatively, an even more impressive increase is expected in institutional investment, the B of M review says, including some $64 million for construction of university facilities, up 50 per cent over 1957, and some $191 million for building and equipping hospitals.

In the field of public works, outlays by federal, provincial and municipal governments are expected to be up $113 million, or 10 per cent over 1957.

Summarizing, the B of M review says, "the indications are that expenditures on new plant, equipment and housing will provide a strong support to the Canadian economy in the year ahead."

Any ideology which forces men and women to accept conclusions, except upon the basis of their own thinking, shackles the freedom of mankind.

SEND GIFT

Most of us consider birthdays after the first fifty no cause for celebration, but a generous couple in Delburne, Alberta, have every reason to be proud of their 87th and 88th birthdays. To celebrate theirs recently, they sent a donation of $6.50 to the Unitarian Service Committee at 78 Spraks Street in Ottawa. Although their gift will not tell hungry children in Asia the secret of such longevity, it will help them to grow up healthy and strong, for it will help to provide much-needed food and medical care for these little ones.

The normal capacity of the jail is 294. In October there were 450 male convicts in the jail, while there were 511 in November, 502 in December, 526 in January and 528 in February.

The institution is designed for convicts between the ages of 16 and 25. During February it housed eight men between 26 and 29.

With a normal capacity of 228, oBwden had 113 prisoners in October, 147 in November, 175 in December, 169 in January and 223 in February.

Popular Vote Gives Tories 64 Percent

The Social Credit had 21 percent of the vote while the Liberals received 14 percent. The Socialist and Communists were forced to be content with about two percent.

Some 20,000 more Albertans went to the polls to use their franchise Monday as compared with last June.

Alberta popular vote final in the Monday night election stood at Conservatives 260,482, Liberals 56,992, CCF 22,048, Social Credit 93,006, Others: LLP 1,184, and Independent (two) 601.

Gardens and Gardening

It won't be long until we start to think about getting out in the garden and planting the first seeds. If you are going to do the work required by a garden you might as well get the best possible results. Don't try to save money by using the seed left over from last year and the year before. It is a good idea to buy new seed every year if you want best results. Don't buy the first seeds you see either, make sure the varieties you are getting are suitable for the area and for the use you will put them to. There is a bulletin, "The Alberta Horticultural Guide" available at the office which gives the varieties suitable for the district and which rates vegetables and fruit as to their suitability for freezing, canning and storage. Pick up or write for a copy of this bulletin.

Watch for Heating Grain

All grain storage should be checked for signs of heating or insects. It doesn't take much moisture to start grain to heat and a lot of granaries have cracks or leaks where moisture can get in. There hasn't been many cases of Grain Beetles or Mites just lately, but regular inspections of all storage should be made anyway just in case.

Farm Accidents

The start of the busy season is not far away now and along with the spring rush will come a lot of accidents unless everyone is careful. Tractors and machinery are dangerous, particularly if children are allowed to play or be around where machinery is working. Don't carry passengers on tractors, don't adjust or grease machinery unless it is stopped, never start a truck, tractor or machine in the yard without looking to see if children are playing in front of it. Take it easy when travelling on a road with a tractor as a lot of tractors are tipped into ditches. Let's make this season accident free.

48 Lose Deposits In Monday's Election

EDMONTON (BUP) — Forty-eight federal candidates in Alberta lost their $200 deposits in Monday's general election which saw the Progressive Conservatives make a clean sweep of all the province's 17 ridings.

There were 70 candidates in the field. Seventeen Tories were elected and five Social Crediters saved their deposits. Alberta had returned 13 Socreds to the last parliament.

Socreds who collected more than half of the votes obtained by Conservatives, included Meredith Bergman in Acadia; John Blackmore in Lethbridge; Horace Olson in Medicine Hat; Fred Shaw in Red Deer and Peter Stefura in Vegreville.

107-Year-Old Man Walks To Poll, Votes PC

Canada's oldest voter, 107-year old Spencer Church, walked up the steps of the community hall at Calabogie, Ont., Monday to cast his ballot in favor of the Conservatives as he has done in every election since confederation, except the first.

Church, who stands four feet four and has never weighed more than 100 pounds, walked by himself from the car to the polling station. He brushed aside offers of help, marked his ballot and walked back to the car. He had risen at 2 p.m. and went to bed at 10 p.m.

Every Conservative prime minister, from Sir John A. MacDonald to John Diefenbaker, has benefited from the vote of the former miner and farmer. His parents settled in Calabogie at a time when they were the only white people in what was then an Indian reservation.

Church is still very active. He walks without help, uses glasses only to read, eats three meals a day and is an avid radio listener. His advice to other would-be long-lifers is "keep moving".

Conservative prime ministers who have been aided by Church's support were Sir John A. MacDonald, Sir J. J. Abbott, Sir John Thompson, Sir M. Bowell, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Robert Borden, Arthur Meighen, R. B. Bennett and John Diefenbaker.

He came of voting age in 1871, four years after confederation, and has never missed voting since.

Church was the father of 13 children, eight living. He also has 55 grandchildren, 54 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

The story of his small size in a family of tall men is that as a boy he contracted a disease which affected his growth when he fell into a pond. He began work in the years when his daily wage was 25 cents.

Spring is a treacherous highway time. Watch for ice slicks hidden on the shady sides of hills. Watch always for the unexpected, warns the Canadian Highway Safety Conference.

Provincial Scout Headquarters are sponsoring a provincial wide scout jamboree at Banff this summer. It is the intention of the Group Committee to send as many qualified scouts as possible from this area. Camping equipment was at a minimum and the fathers were asked to contribute to a tent fund.

The brief but informative talks were augmented by two films. "Chik's Great Adventure" was a narrative describing scouting activities in Malaya. "Life on the Western Marshes", a color picture put out by Ducks Unlimited, depicted the life and dangers experienced by the ducks and geese during their nesting periods in the Canadian Northwest.

Young Artists Give Piano Recital

MYRNAM—Fifty young artists took part in a piano recital held in the school auditorium. Students of Mrs. Jessie Evahnenko and Miss Vickie Tkachuk, the young aspiring musicians performed exceptionally well. From the slow halting notes of the Cuckoo, played by Diana Lynkowski, to the classical selections of Straus' Blue Danube, rendered by Ronald Shymko and Debussy's composition of Golliwogg's Cake Walk, by Patricia Lynkowski, the whole program reflected the fine training given these students. A rendition of Mozart's Tanse and Marche by Patricia Lynkowski and Miss Tkachuk was an enjoyable selection.

A delightful item on the program was Fantasy in Nursery Rhyme, sung by visiting artists from Two Hills, Pat Iftody, Ann Hanashewsky, and Faye Tanne. Their voices blended beautifully in rendering this favorite of children.

On behalf of the parents and students, Mrs. Leona Kully presented each of the teachers with a gift as a token of appreciation for the effort the two put into the training of their children. Net proceeds from the recital were turned over to the Red Cross. Frank Shymko was in charge of arrangements.

Diphtheria Reported

VALLEYVIEW — The Municipal Nurse reports there are two cases of Diphtheria, one suspect, and one carrier of the disease. Several cases of jaundice also have been reported. The nurse warns that precaution should be taken by all parents by reporting all cases of sore throat.

People who have nothing important to do usually occupy themselves with something they think is important.

STE. ANNE DE BEAUPRE TERCENTARY

PILGRIMAGES BY ALL MEANS AND FROM ALL OVER AMERICA

In the old days, pilgrimages presented hardships unknown nowadays, but from the outset, Ste. Anne de Beaupre was a meeting place for pilgrims. The road from Quebec City is doubtless the oldest road in Canada and one of the oldest in America. It was at first a modest footpath at the foot of the mountains.

Washed by the tides and soaked by the rains, it had only been treaded by the Indians' moccasins and the colonists' boots. The only horse in the colony was landed in 1647 and was reserved for the governor. It was only later that others joined it.

The first pilgrimages by land were thus undertaken by foot and, a little later, by carriage. In fact an edict of 1665 gave this road judicial existence, but it was only in 1706 that New-France's Great Road Surveyor started works that were to make this route practicable for carriage traffic and which remained much the same as late as 50 years ago when the automobile first made its appearance.

At the very beginning, it was the St. Lawrence River, the "waterway" which was navigated in bark canoes modernized by the white man's technique. Pilgrimages took place Winter and Summer. Snow, bad roads, lack of communication facilities did nothing to stop these pioneers who roamed America from Hudson's Bay to the Mississippi River and the Rockies.

A Pilgrim from New York in 1673

Did not one see in 1673, Father Corheil, a Jesuit, in a state of sickness and weariness, leave his mission with the Cayugas, in New York State, to reach St. Ann of Petit Cap to implore from the Saint his cure?

Very early did one see pilgrimages accomplished to fulfill a vow or ask for a signal favor. If one is to believe Chateau Richer's books of accounts, it is this parish of the Beaupre coast which organized the first group pilgrimage in 1662.

Jesuit Father Chaumonot himself related in the Jesuit Relations, the first pilgrimage organized by a group of Indians, those of Cote St. Michel (to-day called Ste. Foy) near Quebec. Other tribes did likewise and a tradition of Indians' pilgrimages was established that was to last until last century.

A long series of canoes would glide along the St. Lawrence to the tune of hymns. They came from Gaspe, from the Saguenay and even from the shores of the Great Lakes. Once ashore, they would set up their tents and make their devotions, relying on the local curate to provide for nourishment. They departed after having left their alms in furs, pieces of money and silver rings, as shown by the books of accounts.

The Trip by Water

During two hundred years, bark canoes, row-boats and sailing schooners were precious auxiliaries of the pilgrimage which linked the people with the purest religious traditions of the Middle Ages, while thriving in a strictly Canadian atmosphere. However, progress was to eliminate these means and multiply pilgrimages to St. Ann.

On July 26th, 1844, on the feast of St. Ann, the "Charles-Edouard", by bringing on board 200 pilgrims, opened the prolific era of pilgrimages by steamboat. The ship had to anchor away from the shore and disembarkment operations were carried by means of row-boats which landed the pilgrims on a bound reef; an unfavorable footing for our patent-leather-shod ancestors.

Hay carts drove the pilgrims to the church grounds and this means of approach lasted until 1870, when a regular service was instituted, thrice weekly, due to the growing number o' pilgrims. A makeshift wharf was erected but the landing took hours. So, in 1875, a citizen undertook the construction of a real wharf which met with some success and for the use of which a return fare of 12 cents was exacted. This was the wharf acquired by the Canadian Government in 1914. Pilgrimages by boat became a daily occurence; there were, for instance, 129 trips in 1890.

Trains and Automobiles

But in 1889, a railway had already closed the gap between Quebec and St. Ann by means of a small steam engine, displayed in 1900, by the electric train which, to this day, takes millions of pilgrims to St. Ann.

The year 1908 saw the first automobile on the road to St. Ann. That was another strike against the steamboat and a breach in the popularity of the train itself. The advent of the horseless-carriage brought unprecedented crowds to St. Ann. The old crooked road, enemy of speed, was insufficient, and one still recalls traffic bottlenecks stretching, on feast days, as far as three to four miles, alive with a mounting clamour of indignant klaxon pushers.

Since some years, the old repaired road has been superceded by St. Ann Boulevard, a wide, straight road which swiftly brings to the Sanctuary each year more than a million pilgrims from all over America.

For 1957 alone, 380,000 automobiles were counted and 1958, the Tercentenary year, will probably account for at least a half million cars. So, human progress fortunately serves the inalterable and deep faith which animated and still animates the pilgrims who visit Good St. Ann to pray to her in her house.

Alberta Prices For Furs Higher This Winter, But Fewer Trappers

EDMONTON—Demand for furs in Western Canada has risen this winter for the first time in several years. Prices are higher, but there are fewer trappers to take advantage of the returns.

Good prices are being offered for mink, beaver, ermine and marten pelts. Reports indicate that more mink than ever are being trapped and the beaver harvest is expected to rise slightly. The number of muskrat taken will probably show a decrease.

"Eastern furriers are running short of pelts and there hasn't been much trapping in the west in recent years," explains an Alberta game branch official. "Now prices are way up because the buyers are restocking."

MINK IS POPULAR

Wild mink are selling in Edmonton at $43 and most types of ranch mink cost 10 per cent more than December prices. In Saskatchewan, mink are bringing $20 to $25 a pelt with offers higher at some auctions. British Columbia and Manitoba mink prices also are up.

An increased mink population in Saskatchewan will bring trappers an estimated $80,000 more this year. Game officials say the mink have been thriving on a muskrat diet. Last year 30,000 mink were trapped in the province, double the figure for 1956.

Muskrat prices have levelled off at about $1 a pelt, as good as in 1957 but lower than the $1.50 price of 1956.

Louis Smith, fur buyer in Yorkton, Sask., says the demand for muskrat is not as great as that for mink, ermine, squirrel and the other short furs.

A mild winter is believed the cause of the lower muskrat population.

BEAVER PRICES UP

Beaver pelts are bringing 25 per cent more than in 1957, with prices ranging from about $20 for ordinary lots to $30 for prime blanket lots.

Winter-spring pelts were valued at $1,500,000 in Alberta in 1957. This included 20 timber wolf furs at $2 and 500,000 squirrels at 48 cents apiece.

There are about 2,500 registered trappers in each province. In British Columbia, about half the trappers are Indians and sell or trade their furs at northern posts. Most western trappers bring furs to city buyers for auction. They are paid advances until the furs are sold.

The strong market is encouraging trappers to work their lines more closely after several years in which pelts almost had to be given away at times. Over-all fur-production figures won't be available until late spring when northern trappers bring in their furs, but they are expected to show an increase.

More Road Bans

EDMONTON—The Alberta Highway traffic board announced Monday that effective at 7 a.m. Tuesday, full bans are placed on Highway 12 from Castor to the Saskatchewan border; on highway 51 from Bentley to Gilby.

President Vetoes Price Support Bill

WASHINGTON— President Eisenhower vetoed the farm price support freeze bill, calling it "ill advised from the standpoint both of the nation and of our farm families."

In a veto message to Congress, he said:

"With regard to government controls, what the farm enonomy needs is a thaw rather than a freeze."

Eisenhower's election-year action came despite appeals from a good many Republicans in Congress that he sign the controversial bill.

In announcing his veto, Eisenhower said a five-point program should be undertaken to deal with farm problems. Some sections of that program, embodied in his agriculture message to Congress in Janaury, call for legislation.

"Ample authority already exists for others," Eisenhower said.

It takes a two-thirds majority of members voting in both the Senate and the House of Representatives to override a presidential veto.

The measure passed both the House and Senate by sizable majorities, but the margins were far short of the two-thirds required to override.

The bill freezes farm price supports at no less than 1957 levels for one year.

Not The Time To Talk Labor

EDMONTON— The Alberta legislature debated labor problems for 90 minutes Friday and decided the time isn't ripe for a full house hearing of union and management representatives.

Premier Manning said the best time for such a hearing is when Labor Act amendments are before the house and there are none this year. At a future session, he said, the assembly probably would be "justified in carrying" a motion for a hearing.

Still before the assembly, although debate has been adjourned, is a motion by Ernest Watkins (PC—Calgary) asking the government to "give consideration" to proposals of the Alberta Federation of Labor concerning voting procedures, apprenticeship, fair wages and minimum wages, camp conditions and jury service.

An optimist is very often one who does not have the bill to pay.

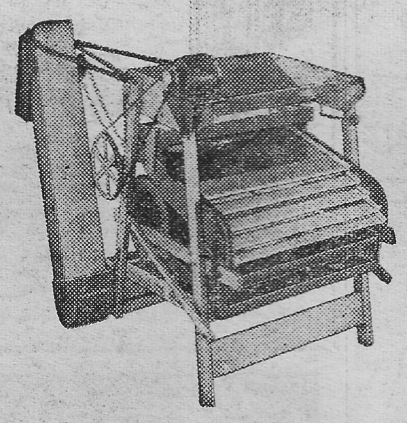
VIKING Grain Cleaners

"THREE MILLS IN ONE"

A Scalper - Air Blast - Corrugated Rolls



Many people do not realize that the Viking is the only farm-size mill that offers the advantages of rolls and sieves combined in one efficient unit. After the grain travels over the sieves and through the air blast, it is tumbled in the corrugated rolls — this action allows the wild oats to pass through the openings in the wire rolls very effectively. This outstanding feature in design is one reason why there are more Vikings used for cleaning seed on the farm than any other one type of fanning mill. Illustrated at left is a 32" mill with 10' elevator and motor drive.

Athabasca Health Unit Notes

By Dr. Hugh M. Brown

HEALTH UNIT REPORTS:

Mumps is on the upswing. From time to time during the past few months there have been a few cases but recently the outbreak has reached epidemic proportions.

Mumps is a disease caused by a virus commonly involving only the parotid gland which lies at the angle of the jaw immediately below the ear on either side.

INCUBATION

After an incubation period of approximately three weeks there is a fairly rapid enlargement of one or both of these glands causing a painful swelling below and in front of the lobe of the ear. There is usually some fever and headache. The disease has usually run its course in one week.

IMMUNITY

One attack confers a lifelong immunity. Recurrent attacks of "Mumps" usually indicate that the patient has a bacterial infection which is known as "Recurrent Parotitis".

As few escape infection (although many may believe they have escaped because the attack has been so mild as to pass unnoticed) and as the disease in children runs a relatively harmless course, it seems wise to allow children to contract mumps before puberty.

COMPLICATIONS

The complications of mumps which are rare in young children but not uncommon in those over the age of puberty may be very unpleasant. They usually occur four to seven days after the onset of the disease in the parotid gland but may occur without any obvious disease in the latter. The complications are: inflammation of the sex glands, meningo-encephalitis (inflammation of the brain and it's coverings) and pancreatitis which is an inflammation of a gland in the abdomen and may cause abdominal pain and vomiting.

Many of these complications are very alarming at the time but fortunately complete recovery is the general rule and after affects are rare.
